MALARIA DRIVEN FROM COMMUNITY

Health Department Tells How Pittsylvania People Joined Forces.

By united effort, one Virginia community has rid itself of mosquitoes and malaria, and vastly improved the living conditions of the entire neighborhood. The results of this "get-together" movement are told in a bulletin issued yesterday by the State Health Department. About two years ago the Health Department began to receive very distressing complaints of malaria in the vicinity of Chestnut Level and Keeling, in Pittsylvania County. It was reported by people that the erection of a dam on a stream that passed through the neighborhood had backed stagnant water into low grounds, where mosquitoes were being bred by the million. Investigation convinced the authorities that the infection had been spread throughout the community by mosquitoes. Whole families were suffering from malaria in such severe form that many of them were incapacitated for work. The people were told that their only hope was in draining the low grounds. The advice was taken. With the co-operation of almost every citizen of the community, the lands were drained.

The chamber, with its great membership of 400 or more, plans a new life for the city, and it is in accordance with its request that the members are giving free expression to their opinions as to the special needs of the city in the way of improvements. Important problems that are to confront the chamber in its work will be placed in the hands of special committees for report.

Three Robberies.

Three robberies were committed on Sycamore Street last night, all in the same vicinity. The store of the Southern Loan Company was entered through the transom of a rear window, and robbed of a number of the finest pistols in stock. As far as known, nothing else was taken. This was the second robbery committed at this store recently, pistols and a gold watch having been stolen on the first occasion. It was not until to-day that the manner of entrance to the store was discovered.

By forcing open a rear door thieves last night gained entrance to the apartments over the Colonial Restaurant and the Petersburg Restaurant, adjoining each other on Sycamore Street, kept by Greeks. From the former a gold locket and chain, valued at $25 was taken, and from the latter about $20 in money. The thief left his overalls in one of the apartments.

Mrs. Elvira Evans, wife of City Sergeant John B. Evans, died this morning shortly after 10 o'clock at her home on High Street. Mrs. Evans was widely known and esteemed in this city and in Richmond, where she had many friends. She was a woman of true nobility of character and universal sympathy is expressed for her husband and children in their affliction. She is survived by two sons and a daughter, John T. and William L. Evans, of this city, and Mrs. John Allison, of Richmond. She is also survived by a brother, William Bullivant, and the following sisters: Mrs. T. J. Meredith, Mrs. Charles L. Wright, Mrs. J. T.
